The Magdalen Church of England / Methodist School Relationships, Sex and Health Education (RSHE) September 2023

Statutory Relationships and Health Education

As a primary church academy, we must provide Relationships Education to all pupils as per section 34 of the Children and Social Work Act 2017. We do not have to follow the National Curriculum, but we are required to offer all pupils a curriculum that is similar in breadth and depth to the National Curriculum, including requirements to teach Science, which would include the elements of sex education contained within the primary Science curriculum. In teaching RSHE, we have regard to the guidance issued by the Secretary of State as outlined in section 403 of the Education Act 1996. At The Magdalen Church of England / Methodist School, we teach RSHE as set out in this policy. We are not required to provide Sex Education, but we are required to teach elements of sex education contained within the Primary Science curriculum.

Definition of Relationships and Health Education

Relationships Education teaches the fundamental building blocks of positive relationships, focusing on friendships, family relationships, and relationships with other peers and adults. The Government's definition is this: "It is lifelong learning about physical, moral and emotional development." (Department for Education and Employment, SRE Guidance, 2000)

Relationships Education

Relationships Education involves direct teaching about :

- Families and people who care for me
- Caring friendships
- Respectful relationships
- Online relationships
- Being safe

It is important to explain that whilst the Relationships Puzzle (unit) in Jigsaw covers most of the statutory Relationships Education, some of the outcomes are also taught elsewhere in Jigsaw e.g. the Celebrating Difference Puzzle helps children appreciate that there are many types of family composition and that each is important to the children involved. This holistic approach ensures the learning is reinforced through the year and across the curriculum.

Parents should also be aware that the Church of England states in "Valuing All God's Children", 2019, that Relationships and Sex education should: "Make it clear that relationships and sex education is designed to prepare all pupils for the future, regardless of sexual orientation or gender identity. RSE must promote gender equality and LGBT equality and it must challenge discrimination. RSE must take the needs and experiences of LGBT people into account and it should seek to develop understanding that there are a variety of relationships and family patterns in the modern world." (Page 34)

Determined to show compassion for those around us and develop a community that embraces Justice and peace.

Health Education (Physical Health and Mental Well-Being)

Health Education involves direct teaching about :

- Mental well-being
- Internet safety and harms
- Physical health and fitness
- Healthy eating
- Drugs, alcohol and tobacco
- Health & prevention
- Basic first aid
- The changing adolescent body

It is important to recognise that whilst the Healthy Me Puzzle (unit) in Jigsaw covers most of the statutory Health Education, some of the outcomes are taught elsewhere in Jigsaw e.g. emotional and mental health is nurtured every lesson through the Calm me time, social skills are grown every lesson through the Connect us activity and respect is enhanced through the use of the Jigsaw Charter. Our wider curriculum also supports Health Education outcomes.

Teaching children about puberty is now a statutory requirement which sits within the Health Education part of the DfE guidance within the 'Changing adolescent body' strand, and in Jigsaw this is taught as part of the Changing Me Puzzle (unit).

Context

while trying hard each and every day to trust other people around us through humility and service

At our school, we believe that all are made in the image of God, are loved by God and are therefore to be treated with dignity and respect. This enables our pupils to understand that they should value the gift of themselves and recognise and respect this gift of uniqueness in others by seeking out heathy relationships. Our school seeks to ensure that the RSHE curriculum protects, informs and nurtures all pupils. The curriculum is delivered with an understanding that pupils and staff will have differing experiences of family structures eg single parent families, LBGTQ families, families headed by grandparents, adoptive parents, foster parents / carers and young carers etc. We are clear that no member of our school community will feel stigmatised as Christians are called to respect and honour everyone (Peter 2:17). All lessons will be delivered with sensitivity within a caring and respectful setting by Teachers and Teaching Assistants. Appropriate training and support is provided for staff.

Our Relationships and Health Education is largely delivered as part of our broader PSHE curriculum. To ensure progression through a spiral curriculum, we use Jigsaw, the mindful approach to PSHE, as our chosen teaching and learning programme and tailor it to our children's needs.

Jigsaw delivers termly units across the whole school from Reception to Year 6

- Being Me in My World
- Celebrating Difference
- Dreams and Goals
- Healthy Me
- Relationships
- Changing Me (Transition)

Whilst the Jigsaw units 'Healthy Me', 'Relationships' and 'Changing Me' are predominantly associated with statutory RSHE, it is important to see the subject as being intrinsically linked to, not only other units with PSHE, but also to our broader curriculum, School Values and the Christian distinctiveness of the school and its ethos. When planning RSHE lessons, teachers are mindful of these links as well as the environmental and social experiences of our school community. Through teaching the units contained within the carefully planned Jigsaw scheme, we ensure that knowledge of the protected characteristics is covered and revisited in an age-appropriate way within a meaningful context (see Appendix 1).

Pupil progress is monitored at the beginning and end of each unit by the class teacher and subject lead.

Sex Education

The DfE Guidance 2019 (p.23) recommends that all primary schools 'have a sex education programme tailored to the age and the physical and emotional maturity of the pupils. However, Sex Education is not compulsory in primary schools'. At our school, we deliver the National Curriculum for Science which includes content about human body parts, growth, puberty and reproduction. Parents do not have the right to withdraw their child from this aspect of the curriculum. In line with best practice, as detailed in Relationships and Sex Education (RSE) and Health Education (gov.uk July 2020) we recognise the importance of the transition phase before moving on to secondary school and the need to ensure that we support both boys and girls are prepared for the changes that adolecence brings – drawing on the knowledge of the human life cycle as set out in the National Curriculum for Science and the Health Education content regarding the changing adolecent body.

Partnership with parents

The role of parents in the development of their children's understanding about relationships is vital. Parents are the first teachers of their children. They have the most significant influence in enabling their children to grow and mature and to form healthy relationships. It is our intention to work in partnership with parents to ensure that children of all backgrounds and abilities are enabled to develop positive and healthy attitudes towards relationships and health which they will take with them into their life beyond our school. Our website contains information for parents (see Appendix 2) – including this specific guidance which is available from the DfE

https://assets.publishing.service.gov.uk/government/uploads/system/uploads/attachment_d ata/file/907638/RSE_primary_schools_guide_for_parents.pdf

Parents do not have the right to withdraw their child from Relationships Education or from elements of sex education which are included in the science curriculum.

Any parent who expresses concerns, or who requires reassurance, should discuss these concerns with the Headteacher and / or the subject leader, Miss Amy Abbott.

This policy will be reviewed annually by the Subject Lead, SLT and the School's Governing Body.

Top tips for talking to your child...

Talking to your child about their feelings, relationships and changing body is important. Building good channels of communication throughout childhood can help your child to communicate with you as future issues of increasing seriousness arise.

Your child needs to know that it's OK to talk, and that you're happy to talk. They will learn this through your body language, tone and manner when you talk so try to behave as you would in any other topic of conversation.

Below are simple strategies to make talking about feelings, relationships and the body more comfortable:

✓ Start by talking about something that you both find comfortable, such as feelings and emotions.

✓ Ask your child what they think their friends know/think about the topic, as this provides a way to talk about your child's views indirectly.

✓ Avoid 'The Chat'. Talk about these topics little and often over everyday events like playing, drawing, whilst driving in the car or watching TV. This can help to normalise the conversation, easing uncomfortable feelings.

✓ Reading a story book containing relevant content is a helpful way to stimulate discussion with your child.

✓ Don't leave it too late. Start talking about relevant topics before you feel your child is approaching a level of curiosity about it, so you establish strong channels of communication in readiness.

✓ Be prepared to listen. Your child will want to have their voice heard without feeling judged. Feeling listened to will encourage your child to talk about issues in the future.

✓ If your child asks you a question you are not sure how to answer, don't panic! Let them know that you will answer it at another time, making sure you remember to. Sometimes a simple answer can provide a sufficient response.

✓ Try to listen calmly, even if what they say surprises or concerns you.

Remember that it is good that they are comfortable to discuss issues with you. They need to trust that you will not respond negatively.

Make sure your child knows they can always talk to you anytime, about anything.
